Placing the N P R R Bonds—What its Financiers are Doing—British Prejudice

London correspondence St Louis Republican

The campaign for placing on the European market the hundred million of North Pacific Railroad bonds which J Cooke & Co propose to issue on the land grants of the last Congress has been actively opened in London by the arrival of Hon Hugh McCullough and Col Puleston and the establishment here of a banking house with that special work as its mission Not being able to secure subscriptions for a dollar of this stock in the money centers of the United States the ring of the North Pacific Railroad have brought their goods to a foreign market Frankfort was first pitched upon as the place where this loan was to be brought out but the war spoiled that plan, and London was selected instead The men who had undertaken this financial feat have made full preparations, they have studied the ground calculated the difficulties and obstacles, and begun the siege of London Money Bags as Bismarck and Moltke began the siege of Paris with adequate resources of brain and purse and the determination to carry the day no matter how long and how hard the resistance Nothing American is just now in favor with Englishmen but least of all American railway securities Their experience with Jim Fisk and Erie shares has made them especially skeptical and suspicious on this point For J Cooke and the North Pacific bonds therefore, the road to popular favor is going to be a pretty hard one to travel The work of making it smooth and easy was begun this week by a welcoming dinner generously offered to Mr McCullough and Col Puleston on their arrival, by Gen George B Sargent of Duluth who is likewise a member of the North Pacific ring now on this side of the Atlantic The affair took place at the Alexandria Hotel and was a most gorgeous success Many of the heavy men of "the city" were present the turtle and wine were fit for a Lord Mayor's table and the speeches overflowed with the good natured common-place and indiscriminate compliment that bloated diners out christen post-prandial eloquence Sir John Rose was there and commented on the fact that he was first finance minister to the Queen at the same time that Mr McCullough held that relation to President Johnson that both had abandoned politics and now met as American bankers in London Sir John is connected with an American house here There were of course innumerable other speakers Everybody was toasted and flattered and everybody pleased This is the first step in the serious business of reassuring the British capitalists in regard to the safety and profit of speculative enterprises with his American cousins and above all, with the men of the N P R R It will be followed by other junketings public and private, and by a series of the most effective yet dignified and high toned advertisements until the great object of placing the hundred millions is accomplished I have had it from the best authority that those who have undertaken this loan will spend a million of dollars in London alone in order to carry it through if such expenditure is found necessary No labor or time or expense is to be spared

England's Position

[London Letter, December 29th, to the N Y Times.]

INSOLENCE TOWARD ENGLAND

And what do you think of the insolence the Germans are showing toward England? Do they wish to compel England to come to the aid of France, and give them an excuse for not carrying out their scheme of contest? Really, their treatment of English officers correspondents and ships looks like it What would you do if the English say, should sink six American ships or if American citizens in England were obliged to shelter themselves under French passports? The country wishes very much to know how long its Government is going to meekly submit to these insults 'Oh for a day of Palmerston' sighs the unhappy subject of a Queen of whom Mr Gladstone is Prime Minister There seems to be little doubt that these insults to England are premeditated, and have a purpose Every English traveler in Germany testifies to the bitter feeling which pervades all classes there against England. War with England is openly threatened They say it is all planned and and mapped out, and the country spied out as thoroughly as France was for two years before the present invasion So is German Switzerland surveyed and mapped for military purposes, and the mouths of the Rhine which must be now in its entirety, and with all its branches, a German river France said no to this and is being crushed Let England say no, or refuse her assent to the annexation of Luxemburg or Holland and she will be crushed likewise That is what they talk about to their English guests in Germany

ENGLAND'S POSITION

If England had the will, and the force to back her will the Eastern question the Danish question, the Luxembourg question and the question of the dismemberment of France and the destruction of the balance of power in Europe might be settled Oh for a will and arm of might! or even a clear head and valiant heart, in such a crisis! England will weakly shilly shally, dilly dally as at [illegible] action is too late France will be [illegible] and trodden under the heel of the conqueror who will then be ready with fleet and army to invade and punish England for her unfriendly neutrality, or France will beat and hurl back her invader and be ready to turn upon her cowardly and recreant ally, who has deserted her in her extremity England sits shivering on the fence waiting to see which party will be the victor which it will be safe to join The Germans hate, the France begin to scorn her The French comment on the seizure and sinking of the English ships in the Seine is worthy of the national reputation for wit 'England' they say, "should change her motto of Dieu et mon droit, for that of Battu et content (licked but happy) Well it is none of my business but I do not see how a proud and gallant people can bear to bear it And if the reports are true the seizure of the ships was as cruel and rapacious in manner as if they had been French The crews were fired up on and not allowed to get their money or clothing, which were taken by the Germans, and when driven ashore they nearly perished of cold and hunger

As an example of the levies made in the French towns which the Germans take possession of, a correspondent mentions that in Rouen there have been demanded (not 15,000 000 francs as is sometimes stated or any money whatever but) 30 000 pairs of boots 80,000 blankets and large quantities of provisions The chief officers live in the two first class hotels at the expense of the city The peasants are required by an order of the Mayor to bring their cattle to the city and all horses are confiscated Here, as in most of the cities where the Germans have taken up their winter quarters they have prepared to have a comfortable time

The editor of the Mobile Register relates that when he was in Washington in the spring of 1861 as one of the Confederate Commissioners to Mr Lincoln's Administration, he met Gen Cameron with a puzzled smile on his face As they grasped hands he said You are a very queer people in this country Here you are in the South in revolt against the Washington Government and I find you a representative of the [illegible] quietly walking the principal avenue of the capital of the Power against which you have rebelled Why are you not in prison Why don't they garrote you

WASHINGTON FACT AND GOSSIP

Congressman Johnson has introduced a resolution in Congress for an investigation into the recent disgraceful "hazing" at West Point

In the Senate on the 23d January Senator Corbett introduced a bill for a survey of [illegible] overflowed lands in the State of Oregon with a view to drainage, etc Referred to the Committee on Public Lands

It is believed log rolling arrangements are consummated between the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and the Pacific Railroads, whereby the former steamers will be withdrawn from the Panama line, when Congress will doubtless, increase the China line subsidy

A few days ago Senator Morton submitted a communication from the heads of Departments stating that there was no excess of clerical force in any of the Departments In some instances an increased force was demanded by the interests of the public service and as a rule the clerks were attentive and competent.

The Committee on Banking and Currency, though a sub committee, consisting of Cox, Burchard and Coburn, have been in communication with the Secretary of the Treasury with the view of ascertaining whether the estimate of $250,000 for reprinting from new plates the $10 and $20 notes of national banks can't be reduced There is no doubt the committee will report a bill for that purpose owing to the circulation of well executed counterfeits of these denominations

On the 23d January the President sent to the Senate the nomination of Geo L Woods, of Oregon, as Governor of Utah and Lemuel Lyon, of Oregon as Consul at Singapore On the same day the Senate confirmed the following nominations J J Hoffman, Superintendent of Indian Affairs for Washington Territory, R J Monroe Receiver of Public Moneys at Lewiston, Idaho Henry Warren Receiver of Public Moneys at Oregon City Oregon, Owen Wade Register of the Land Office Oregon City, Postmaster J M Pinney, Idaho City

The apportionment bill will be the occasion of a very sharp fight in the House the Western members being determined to press an amendment authorizing the election of additional Representatives next fall in States which now have less than the number they will be entitled to by the new bill They say that if they consent to increase the number of members of the House that the Eastern States shall not be deprived of any portion of their present representation, and that the members from those States ought to be willing to agree to the demands of the Western States for the representation their population entitles them to.

Secretary Delano has ordered that no person claiming to act as attorney on behalf of any Indian tribe, or any members thereof will be recognized as such by the Interior Department Indian Office unless such person is possessed of a duly executed power of attorney from the chiefs of tribes or nations acknowledged before an agent of the United States for such tribe or nation the agent before taking such acknowledgment to be satisfied by personal investigation that such power of attorney was fairly and duly obtained This order applies to all persons claiming to act as attorneys for Indians whether by power heretofore given or otherwise

There is rather a long array of ex rulers now living in Europe Their names, including some who had never more than a nominal tenure of their throne are as follows. The time when they "went out of business" is also given Prince Gustavus Vasa of Sweden 1809 Count de Chambord August 12 1830 Duke Charles of Brunswick September 10 1830 Count de Paris, February 24 1848 Duke Robert of Parma 1859 Grand Duke Ferdinand of Tuscany 1860 Duke Francis of Modena 1860 Francis II of Naples February 13 1861 the widow of King Otho of Greece October 24 1862 Duke Adolphus of Nassau 1866 King George of Hanover 1866 the Elector of Hesse 1866 [illegible] ex Empress of Mexico 1867 [illegible] Queen of Spain 1868 Napoleon III, 1870

Cincinnati is in affliction about the census again Last May in order to make a good showing of population a vote was taken and a number of country villages and precincts were annexed to the city Including these the population of Cincinnati mounted to 218 000 Now comes the Supreme Court of Ohio, and decides that the act of the Legislature providing for the annexation is unconstitutional and that the country precincts form no part of Cincinnati This reduces the population of the city to a fraction over 200 000

EDITOR OREGONIAN

In your issue of January 30 I find the statement that Mr Patterson, State Printer prevailed on Mr Fleischner State Treasurer to refuse the payment of warrant 310 and that he had been the prime mover in bringing about the suit for its payment The former State Printer had no interest in the warrant or part in the suit and therefore as the only person interested I believe I understand all the facts The State Treasurer made an earnest effort when the warrant was first presented to find a way for its payment without (in his opinion) laying himself and his bondsmen liable and often expressed desire that I should receive my money as he knew the debt to be a just one If he had prompted his action or he had been as fully [illegible] Mr Patterson [illegible] most certainly the case would have been appealed but believing the order of the Court sufficient protection for himself and his bondsmen he cheerfully paid the claim with interest and costs to the last farthing

Will you in justice at least to Mr Fleischner through whose friendship and kindness I have been saved further trouble and expense be kind enough to give this a place in your paper

France and the Empire

For some time it has appeared that the tendency of affairs in France has been toward the restoration of Napoleon It may well be supposed that the Emperor of Germany and his advisers would desire his restoration; but they seem disposed to allow the French perfect freedom in selecting their form of government and future rulers and without the interference in behalf of Napoleon the charlatan ex Emperor may find it difficult to instate himself again in the Tuileries

For certainly his mal administration and his most disastrous failures ought to show the French people what manner of man he is and cause them to repudiate with indignation any proposition to re-establish his feeble, corrupt and imbecile government The confessions of his own pamphlets, which he has issued at Wilhelmshohe should be sufficient for his condemnation, and should cause a high spirited people to repel such a pretender. These pamphlets are the apologies of an imbecile for the failures of a charlatan His defense, by which he has evidently hoped to gain the favorable judgment of the world, is an accusation of his own policy and a condemnation of his own administration.

Thus in one of his pamphlets he sets out with a st[illegible] —after the event,—of a plan of operations which he thinks ought to have succeeded; and says coolly that defects in [illegible] French military system and the delay in [illegible]ging up men and material, defeated his [illegible] If this statement is true, and it has [illegible] in it than most of Napoleon's [illegible] is simply an arraignment of his own neglect or incapacity, or both, to make the French military system what it should have been [illegible] He was not—according to his [illegible]—a real Emperor, but a sham [illegible] in this as in others France has been above all other things a military nation, and [illegible] could not keep her abreast of the latest improvements in military science, [illegible] either have resigned as incompetent, [illegible] ted a policy of peace

[illegible] admits his vacillation at an important [illegible] the late campaign He wavered [illegible] ghtful and finally yielded his own [illegible] to the Regency and to the impetu[illegible] McMahon In fact, he began to abdicate [illegible] functions of an Emperor after his first reverse in the field He also admits that he could not resist the popular clamor [illegible] war In other words he could not preserve peace nor make war After nineteen years he was unprepared for the first severe storm of his reign, and abandoned the [illegible] when it required skill and pluck to hold [illegible] What a shameful end to a theatrical career!

Doubtless it is true that there was a popular clamor for war In fact the student of [illegible] knows that the real cause of the [illegible] the nature of the French people, who [illegible] long been filled with large ideas of glory, and who have gone, [illegible] as crusaders over the rest of [illegible] [illegible] of the great revolution and [illegible] the first Napoleon, filled the French people with the ideas that produced this war Such has been the growth of [illegible] and its progress in sound p[illegible] France would probably have [illegible] this struggle, under any leaders[illegible] [illegible] except the most imbecile and [illegible] could have brought her to such [illegible] extremity or ruin The French may see [illegible] and refuse to re-establish the Empire If [illegible] are not wise enough to see it there is [illegible] for the renaissance of France

THE ART OF PUTTING THINGS —We may [illegible] a lesson in the 'art of putting things' from the Pall Mall Gazette Who would imagine that there could be any cause of grievance on our part toward Great Britain after reading such a pleasant paragraph as the following in a recent issue of that newspaper? We believe, however that the Gazette in its [illegible] moments does admit that the [illegible] Government owes the United States a [illegible] bill for an act of carelessness which would not have been allowed to take place if the supposed friendliness of the Government [illegible] been anything more than the most passive sort of indifference

But nothing is required to add to the friendly disposition of this country towards the United States Friendliness in all that goes to constitute the friendship of States has existed on our side for half a century, nor have [illegible] Americans the smallest evidence of unfriendliness to rest upon except the alleged [illegible] that when a nation which has always been looked upon by foreigners as one and indivisible, and which would have bitterly resented any other view of its Constitution was suddenly split into two halves, the sympathies of Englishmen wavered for a time between the fragments, and were not exclusively given to one of them

The New York Evening Post, a paper in the interest of revenue reform, so-called, publishes its model for a tariff that shall not 'protect' anything American. The tariff, it calculates will provide $122 695,000, but as the necessary expenses of the Government are $187,000,000 in excess of this amount, the Post evidently desires to raise the bulk of the national receipts by internal revenue and direct taxation Workingmen will be pleased to know that $73 000 000, according to this Free Trade Tariff, is to come from their sugar, molasses, tea and coffee They will rejoice in the revenue reform which permits them to pay 25 cents per pound [illegible] their tea, [illegible] for their coffee 8 cents [illegible] per gallon for their molasses and 3 cents more per pound for their sugar

Inasmuch as we copied in our columns certain extracts from Senator Fay's caustic criticisms on the Herald we had intended to give a portion of the Herald's reply The first installment of that reply is published but as it consists of nothing but uncandid indirections and petty quibbles, padded out with feeble and driveling comments we cannot trespass on the patience of our readers or on the space that might be better filled, by making any extracts More is promised and if what is to come is not on the dead level of intellectual feebleness we may give portions of it

A writer in the Chicago Tribune speaks of the increasing scarcity of timber and says that "no one has yet answered the question where are the railroad ties to come from at the beginning of the next century?" We can not use iron and stone for ties as we may use brick, stone and iron for building, but must have wood Oregon Washington Territory and Alaska, can answer where the ties may be had at the beginning of the next century and of the next one after that if the railroad companies will only devise some method to take them from here to the places where they may be wanted

The Alabama Claims

If the dispatches report correctly [illegible] government at once [illegible] claims. [illegible] up in a sensational and exaggerated style though in all probability the Administration is preparing to take a step forward in this matter Lord Hobart an Englishman, in a review of the questions in dispute recently published after paying a high tribute to the tenacity of our people in the recent great struggle and to their wise and unrevengeful spirit after their victory urge that a nation which has shown itself capable of such heroic sacrifices and such great self restraint must have some reasonable ground for its complaints against the action of Great Britain in the civil war and that at all events we are under the profound impression (possibly a mistaken one) that we have been unjustly treated by that Power

There is however, no mistake about it One of the most prudent and conservative of our journals the New York Times says there is a feeling profound and earnest that we have been wronged in the moment of our greatest need and danger Under this feeling there is no doubt, with the passionate masses, an intense desire for revenge The Times adds that this sense of wrong as Lord Hobart urges, can only be removed by proper action on the part of Great Britain viz the payment of an indemnity, and the declaration of principles of international law as affecting the sending forth of cruisers from neutral ports President Grant very properly takes the position that money alone is not sufficient reparation for the wrong we have received. He desires an apology or an acknowledgment which is tantamount to one

Reduction of the public debt notwithstanding the great reduction of the taxes, still goes on The diminution effected during the month of January was $4,040 986 making a decrease since President Grant came into office of not less than two hundred millions of dollars Each and every month since he became President has shown a decrease This is an achievement of which the country as well as the Administration may well be proud

In a recent speech in the House of Representatives Mr Maynard of Tennessee, said 'Whatever else betides the South, Heaven preserve her from her old school of States rights Democratic politicians'

The Battle of Le Mans

HEROIC RESISTANCE OF THE FRENCH—A NIGHT ASSAULT BY THE GERMANS—PANIC AND ROUT OF THE FRENCH

[New York Herald's correspondence]

January 16, 1871

A CORRESPONDENT'S EXPERIENCES.

My own personal experience of the battle commenced at one o'clock, when I reached the heights on the French left The day was not cold, although the ground was still covered with eight inches of snow, which was melting beneath the rays of a hot sun The air was clear and crisp and the clouds blue and golden At an early hour the streets of Le Mans which were not more than five miles from the battle field were thronged by excited crowd and numerous wagons filled with ammunition and supplies, ready to start for a place of safety in the rear in case there was an unfavorable result to the fight

AN ANIMATED SCENE

At noon I succeeded in receiving transportation to the front and, reaching the bluffs east of Le Mans obtained the first view of the battle on the French left I passed on [illegible] road numerous ammunition trains belonging to the artillery going backwards and forwards in what appeared to be disorder Numerous groups of stragglers were also seen, some wounded, going to the rear, although these seemed to be accompanied by an unnecessarily large number of unwounded men Many ambulances passed to and fro, some going to the front, others returning with loads of suffering creatures One poor fellow had fallen down on the roadside from loss of blood. He had been wounded through the arm above the elbow I gave him some brandy and got him into a passing ambulance

DODGING BALLS

Along the line of the railroad every available point was commanded by a strong force of infantry The Prussians were less than a mile distant, and balls occasionally rattled against the branches of the tall trees growing on the side of the road As a general rule self-preservation seemed to be the prevailing sentiment of the soldiers as well as civilians judging from the fact that every time the evidence of leaden visitors was heard the ground would be covered with prostrate forms

APPEARANCE OF THE BATTLE FIELD

Before two o'clock I reached a mountainous eminence four miles east of Le Mans, where I had a good view of a portion of the battle-field Partly up the eminence I passed a farm house, deserted by its inmates which had been struck by a cannon ball The crest of the elevation was occupied by a strong force of Gardes Mobile and six batteries of artillery but they did not seem capable of effective service The battle field below, stretching out [illegible] before me, had the appearance of a chess-board, the white squares being the open fields of snow, and the black ones the patches of woods As far as the movements on the battle-field were concerned, it seemed impossible to understand which side had the advantage The heavy smoke here and there told where the artillery was doing murderous work, and occasional movements of infantry were seen, looking wonderfully insignificant in the distance

ATTACK ON CHANZY'S HEADQUARTERS

Despairing of gaining any definite idea of the results there, I obtained information of the position of Gen Chanzy's headquarters and hastened to find him I reached the position at half past three o clock and found Gen Chanzy, attired in red pantaloons, with a jaunty hat setting off to advantage his singularly handsome countenance Here I remained. At 4 o clock in the evening the Germans advanced [illegible], covered by a [illegible] fire against the Chateau des Chartres, a pretty country place near the headquarters Here, for the first time, the French batteries hitherto in the reserve opened fire and apparently took the Germans completely by surprise for it caused their advance to waver The irresolution however, was only momentary With characteristic German obstinacy the Germans again pressed forward and attacked the French infantry which occupied the terraced road below the headquarters of Gen Chanzy

AN ORDERLY RETREAT

It soon became evident that the French would be unable to withstand the heavy charges made by the enemy Nevertheless the struggle was exceedingly obstinate and well maintained till about 5 o clock when an order was given for a backward movement As the French infantry slowly fell back the artillery was brought to the front and it maintained a steady fire upon the German line, successfully covering the retreat The Germans, apparently in contempt for their partial success seemed disinclined to pursue the advantage they had gained in the day's fighting Gen Chanzy actively superintended the retreat which was never disorderly at any time

HOPEFUL OF THE MORROW

Indeed the French still held the strongest positions, and it was believed that the day was not irrecoverably adverse to them They had been forced back from their original line of battle but that was all There had been no rout no disorderly breaking of brigades or even battalions I have reason to know that Gen Chanzy did not despair of success He expected a fierce struggle prolonged through several days and hoped to renew the battle under better auspices to morrow Thus after a bloody encounter lasting till dark in which the carnage had been fearful on both sides nothing decisive had been gained by the German All their [illegible] had [illegible] negative and the French officers and soldiers remained hopeful that the close of the morrow would see them victorious over their enemy

A FATAL NIGHT ATTACK

But an event occurred which made a total change in the prospects of the French It was an event common enough in the history of war Had it failed the result would have been disastrous to the Germans It succeeded and shattered the hopes of the French Darkness had fallen upon the battle field or rather, I should say that day had gone for the evening was not very dark One could see the vast field of snow dotted here and there by dark objects the bodies of the victims of the day's struggle—while the patches of woods rose up grimly from the midst of the white fields Suddenly and without their preparations attracting attention a strong force of Germans renewed the battle Making toward the French right at La Tillere the most important position held by the army of the Loire immense masses of infantry supported by a large force of cavalry advanced with the utmost rapidity scattering in all directions the French forces opposed to them

A GENERAL RETREAT

The attack was not anticipated by the French The suddenness and rapidity with which the movement was executed took them completely by surprise and but little resistance was offered. At the outset the Gardes Mobile of Brittany were seized with panic and fled in great disorder. This completely destroyed the French line of battle, as their whole force on the right bank of the Huisne was compelled to make a rapid retreat to save itself from capture

THE FUTURE PROSPECT

It is impossible at this writing to describe the effect of this unforeseen disaster It may—I can almost say it will—compel the evacuation of Le Mans, if it does not result in the breaking up of Gen Chanzy's army A council of war is now in session in Le Mans If the second French army of the Loire is lost all hope for France is gone

SUBJECT--Toussaint L'Ouverture, the Hero of San Domingo.

The character of Toussaint L'Ouverture may well be considered as one of the most striking of that remarkable era opened by the revolution of 1789—the central figure of which was the great Napoleon

So soon as it was known in San Domingo that a Republic had been declared in France the French residents of the Island sent a congratulatory address to the Constituent Assembly, and cordially accepted the new order of things At this time the free negroes of the Island were denied all privileges and slavery existed in its worst form A revolt at once took place and a bloody war followed, which resulted in the freeing of the slaves and the placing of Toussaint at the head of the combined armies of France and the Island Under his leadership the attempts of England and Spain to wrest San Domingo from France were successfully foiled and Toussaint declared himself President of the Republic of Hayti This proved distasteful to the Man of Destiny then First Consul and he sent a force to reduce the Island and to re-establish slavery The story of treachery and deceit the manly and dignified bearing of L'Ouverture his tragic fate all combined to form an intensely interesting chapter of history and one but little known

San Domingo is just now exciting so much attention in view of the possibility of its becoming a part of the Great Republic that all items of interest concerning it are eagerly sought for by the people.

Mr Riley's lecture will incidentally embody a full description of its geographical position its products and people, and without pretending to advocate either side of the controversy now existing in regard to its acquisition, will give a purely historical address, devoid of political bias

Those who have listened to Mr Riley's platform addresses need not be told that he speaks with fluency correctness and fervor, and is master of a rhetoric which often rises to eloquence When it is considered that his natural abilities have been aided by self-culture only under the disadvantages peculiar to his race, no fair minded person will fail to give him a respectful hearing

FRIDAY MORNING FEBRUARY 3 1871

CITY.

OUR NEW COUNCIL CHAMBER—The city of Portland having without question the snuggest little Council Chamber on the coast no doubt the people would like to hear something of a description of it It is situated at the rear of the second story of Corbett's new brick on Front street the entrance being from the landing at the top of the first flight of stairs The doors open into the lobby which is separated from the councilmen's floor by an oval form railing through which are gateways on either side of the room The lobby is furnished with about fifty chairs Standing in the lobby the first thing which attracts attention is the President's seat, which is overhung with a canopy of rich moulding from which are suspended and looped back curtains of green reps The President's chair is of carved black walnut, upholstered with green plush the design being heavy, but neat and tasteful Just over the back of the chair hangs a large lithograph of "Washington and his Generals" The table in front of the President is of black walnut frame, carved, with laurel panels and top border the center being covered with Russian leather The design is handsome having much the effect of inlaid work In front of the President's seat the Auditor has his chair and desk, of black walnut, upholstered with green Russian leather In front of all and in a semi circle is the table and row of chairs occupied by the Councilmen, each seat being so placed that each Councilman sits exactly facing the President. The chairs are all of black walnut, cushioned and with arms, the upholstery being of Russian leather and all are mounted on castors The Council floor is carpeted with a rich design of Brussels The reporters of the press are furnished with a table and chairs of the same design as that of the Auditor, and the Chief of Police has a chair on the opposite side, the latter being on the right of the Auditor The windows of the Council part of the Chamber are hung with orange shades and green reps curtains, those of the lobby end with only orange shades On the left of the Council floor there is an elegant black walnut stand for water pitchers and glasses The principal light of the Chamber is furnished by a large pendant chandelier of six or eight burners, there are two other burners, one at each end of the President's desk set on turned pedestals A short flight of steps communicates with the Auditor's office from the floor at the right of the President

The main entrance to the Auditor's office is, however, from the main hall on the first floor The office is furnished with a counter, under which are closets and drawers for the keeping of books, papers, etc It has two or three new black walnut desks, a wash stand, centre table with drawers, and a large elegant cabinet The latter has in the upper part sixty-four small and eight large drawer pigeon holes for the filing of papers. All these are indexed upon a chart, so that by a glance at the latter any class of papers may be found at once The floor of the office is neatly covered with oil cloth The furniture of both rooms was made in this city, by Messrs Emil, Lowenstein & Co Both rooms are heated, as are all the rooms in the building, with heated air from a furnace and blast in the basement. On the opposite side of the hall from the Auditor's office, there are two rooms which are to be fitted up for Surveyor's office and committee room The committee of the Council under whose supervision (with the advice and suggestions of Auditor Caldwell) everything has been ordered, are Messrs Hill, Hallock and Brock, and the piece will be a standing monument to their good taste and liberal views For the first time Portland has a Council Chamber of which its citizens may be proud

FIREMEN'S AMENITIES—We called at each of the engine houses last evening and had an opportunity to witness the cordial social relations that exist among them all. There were several incidents at these meetings which serve to illustrate the harmony and good feeling prevailing not only among the several companies, but between the individual members There was everywhere a perfectly amicable contest for the positions of honor and when the elections were over and the meetings adjourned, there were hearty congratulations visiting from one house to another, joining in lunch, and various other courtesies, and in no instance did we see anything but the most agreeable manifestations and good as a general result After the at No 3's, that company marched down to No 2's, just as the sed her meeting, and all joined in a ed offee etc No 3's gave three cheers 2, and the latter returned the compliment No 3's, at the close of the meeting, there were uple of interesting presentations Mr Thos oung, the retiring Foreman, presented the company with a Chief's hat and belt, which had four years ago been presented to him when he was her Engineer The conditions of the presentation were that the company should keep them in trust for the first man of the company who should be elected Chief Engineer The hat and belt cost $150, and they are truly elegant specimens of firemen's paraphernalia M ung was himself the recipient of a very handsome present from the company, in acknowledgment of his valuable past services to the Company and the Department The present was an elegant diamond (single stone) breast pin, costing $120 The presentation was made by Mr H Boyd, the retiring President, in an appropriate little speech, which was feelingly replied to by Mr Young in accepting the gift It may be appropriately noted here that Mr Boyd retires from the Presidency of this company at his own expressed wish, after continuous service for eight years in that position, and he had to positively decline to prevent a re-election Upon glancing over the list of officers and delegates, lists of whom are given elsewhere, it will be seen that while many of them are old hands in the positions to which they are now chosen, some of them are new and untried, but entirely capable young men, and it will be concluded by those who know them best that the companies have all made excellent selections, and that the subordinate organization of the Department is in good and strong executive hands

SENT TO THE HOSPITAL—The starved China woman of whom we made mention yesterday morning, was taken out of her prison-crib yesterday afternoon and sent to the hospital At first the Chinamen refused to assist in getting her out, but they were finally coerced. The woman was visited during the day by quite a number of people curious to see so hideous and sickening a sight She seemed vastly delighted to be rescued from her slow torture When the wagon in which she had been placed, was ready to start, she manifested great anxiety about a "box" but the Chinamen around were all troubled with their usual complaint, "No sabbee," until finally, a Teuton whose sympathies had been aroused, seized hold of John and with a Dutch oath and a shake, made him believe it good policy to "heap sabbee," when John brought the box (containing some old traps which it seems were the woman's property) and it being placed in the wagon, the woman was driven away in an apparently comfortable state of mind

SHADE TREES FOR STREET BORDERS—An ordinance was passed Wednesday evening, providing for the planting of shades along the curbs of Morrison street on either side, from Second to Twelfth streets Notice of this improvement and in fact of similar improvements of all the streets of the city where roadways and sidewalks have been constructed, was given by publication last August. The terms of the law are such that holders of property abutting upon streets to be thus improved may themselves plant the shade trees in manner satisfactory to the Committee on Streets and public property or, if they do not choose to do it, then the city will advertise for bids and let the contract to the lowest responsible bidder, and the cost will be assessed upon and collected from the property holders There is yet time for owners of property along Morrison street to plant their own shade trees, and as they can do it at less cost than to pay the city for doing the work it may be worth their while to give the matter attention

THE NEXT LECTURE—The second lecture in the course in aid of the Young Men's Christian Association, will be delivered next Tuesday evening by Mr George P Riley—subject "Toussaint L'Ouverture the Hero of San Domingo" Of Mr Riley's abilities as a public speaker we know but little except upon common report, never having heard him but he is reputed to be a fluent and correct and entertaining speaker His subject is naturally an interesting one, and especially so in view of the late attitude of the United States toward the Island of San Domingo The lecturer will be led of course to say much of the physical features of the Island and of its people, and thus to afford important information about matters with which but few have any acquaintance

ARRIVED AT SAN FRANCISCO—A telegram dated yesterday at 4 30 P M announced the arrival at San Francisco of the steamship Idaho from Portland

AMUSEMENTS.

FAREWELL BENEFIT—This evening Mrs Bates will take a testimonial and farewell benefit this appearance being her last but one of the season For the occasion the new and beautiful drama of "Married—Unmarried" will be presented, Mrs Bates in the charming character of Adèle de Malfi supported by Mr Vinson as Colin Goguenard, Miss Angles as Juan de Vilmain, and all the others of the company in the cast The evening will close with the sparkling comedy of "The Naval Engagement." We trust that our people will give Mrs Bates a farewell befitting her rich deserving

CHAS GALL—This individual, who was taken from the bosom of his companions in this city, the other day, by Marshal Fisher, of Salem, on a charge of larceny, is thus mentioned by the Salem Statesman "Charles Gall was brought before Justice Murphy yesterday morning, and after examination, was held to answer on the charge of larceny in a dwelling house, and in default of $500 bail, he is now in the county jail The evidence showed that at one o clock at night he had no money, and got up from a game of cards in a saloon, dead broke In this strait he borrowed a bit of Thomas DeWitt, a colored man, about as valuable a member of society as himself At four o'clock he went to the Pacific Brewery and paid his bill, and thence to a livery stable and wanted to hire a horse and buggy and be taken to Jam hill, but he couldn't get accommodated and went to Portland by boat, though he claims to have gone there on foot At Portland he went it with a looseness, and found his way to the city prison as drunk and disorderly No money of consequence was found on him, as $91 wouldn't last an energetic scamp like him very long The watch was found on him, and proves to be the one belonging to Rev L. L Rowland, so that of itself, is enough to secure Charles a chance to learn brick making We have heard that on the boat he wanted a drink before day and offered $2 50 for a drink, and mourned greatly because he couldn't be accommodated He showed the watchman his twenty dollar pieces with great elation, and said that was the kind he 'went for', and tried to find out by the stolen watch how long before the boat would start He expresses himself as having any amount of sympathy for the young man who thought he was robbed of the ten cent piece, and swears that he will send him the first one he can lay his hands on So we may look for a petit larceny to that extent Charley brags of the living in the Salem jail, and is glad to get out of the one at Portland and have another chance at Tom Reynolds' bill of fare."

THE POISONING CASE—Several persons were arrested late Wednesday night on the charge of being concerned in the drugging and poisoning of Charles B Louis, whose case we mentioned yesterday morning They were examined before Judge Lewis yesterday afternoon, and all but one were discharged on that count Henry Johnson, who was proved to have been the man who roped the victim in, was held to answer in the sum of $500, and failing to give bail he was committed to jail A man named Dougherty, arrested with the others, stabbed a young man named Foster, while going down the stairway from the Police Court on the way to jail, and for this he was committed to the county jail, in default of $5,000 bail for his appearance at the next term of the Circuit Court. The testimony of Louis before the Court did not agree in all respects with his story of the night before, yet from his evidence and that of Dr Giltner, the physician who treated him for the poison, it was clear that he had been poisoned with some drug in his liquor—probably aconite—and the Judge declared himself satisfied that he was poisoned in the saloon in question, on Morrison street The evidence, however did not fix the crime clearly on any one, but it pointed more strongly toward Johnson than the others, and he was accordingly held.

PUGET SOUND HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Puget Sound Homestead Association was held at the office of Russell & Ferry last evening One hundred and sixty shares were represented The following named persons were elected officers for the ensuing year; George Crook, President, P W Gillette, Vice President, O P Ferry, Secretary, J H Hatch, Treasurer A H Nickerson, R J. Eskridge O W Pollock, Directors The Secretary reported the amount collected, $23,936 50, amount paid on land, $21,786 50, leaving amount unpaid on land only $8,213 50 The amount due on land to date is only $19,500, so that the association have overpaid on land account $2 286 50, showing a very flourishing condition of affairs

The following resolutions were adopted

"That the right of way over the lands of the Association be granted to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company

"That the Directors are authorized to grant land to the N P R R Co for the establishment of stations"

UPROAR—About 9 o'clock last evening there was quite an uproar on First street, consequent upon the arrest of a boisterous drunken man He refused to submit to an arrest till overpowered by numbers, and even then it required three or four men to get him along He cursed and bawled, held back and threw himself down and kicked up a general row, but he was finally snaked off to jail, followed by an immense crowd of idlers and curiosity hunters It might have been supposed from the uproar and rush that there were not less than a half dozen first class fights going on

THE RAILROAD SUBSIDY—Those who have subscribed to the Railroad subsidy will do well to aid the Committee in the discharge of their duty by talking the matter up to those who have not yet subscribed Let each one organize himself into a Committee of one to labor for this subsidy until the whole amount is raised And above all there should be a rousing meeting at the Court House next Monday evening The Committee will have an important report to make and very important business will be brought before the meeting

PORTLAND HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION—The Portland Homestead Association held a regular meeting at the Police Court room last evening, and resolved to file supplementary articles of incorporation to extend the duration of the Association till June 1872 It was also ordered that the property be disposed of at the next quarterly meeting, May 2d, 1871

PORTLAND LIBRARY—The following books have been donated to the Portland Library by Mr F H Marsh Life of Thomas Paine—Vale Exeter Hall Devil's Pulpit Paine's Philosophical Works, The Soul of Things—Denton Taylor's Diogenes The Apocryphal New Testament Syntagma Voltaire's Philosophical Dictionary

RAILROAD MEETING—A railroad meeting will be held at the court house next Monday evening to close up the subscriptions to the $100 000 subsidy

STEAMBOAT ITEMS—We are informed that upon her last trip (this week) from Oregon City to Salem, the steamer Fannie Patton made the quickest time on record, beating the best time ever made by the Reliance, by an hour or more She ran from the basin to the Salem wharf in six hours and forty three minutes, including all stoppages to wood up and discharge freight The Fannie used to be a comparatively slow boat, but since her hull was re-built to Capt Kellogg's model, she is, with the same power as before, the fastest boat that ever ran the upper river

The steamer Shoo Fly, which was put into the dry dock a couple of weeks since to be remodeled on the Fannie Patton's pattern, has just been completed and taken into the basin She will start this morning up the river

The P T Co have determined to build a new and large steamer, and the work has already been begun She is to be 150 feet long by 25 feet beam and 6 feet depth of hold, capable of carrying from 250 to 300 tons She is to be built upon the Kellogg model, furnished with very powerful machinery, and it is therefore calculated confidently that she will be the fastest boat on the Wallamet

The particular attention of the Farming Community is called to our recent importation of Improved MOLINE PLOWS greatly superior to any other Moline Plow in the Market notwithstanding a certain firm somewhat noted for truth and veracity—so called—persist in affirming that they are "bogus" "California made" etc

Don't fail to call and look at one of the MOLINE PLOW Co's LATEST MAKE and we think you will coincide with a Yamhill Farmer who after "looking round" and hearing the old story about bogus Molines to deceive Lincoln, self thusly "Well Myers I'll just chance a couple of those new plows and if they are bogus as that gassy chap above here says, I'll be darned if I won't like bogus in mine every time"

Next we expect another shipment of those justly celebrated BAIN WAGONS, (Have now only a few left of the last lot,) STILL FURTHER IMPROVED over all heretofore received It is not presumption on our part to say that they are head and shoulders above any other Farm wagon in market in point of material workmanship and finish having achieved a reputation throughout the West, and wherever introduced on the Pacific second to no other wagon Some of the first sold here—three years ago—have never yet had a tire re-set, and our experience has enabled us to order many changes and improvements over the ordinary make of western wagons to meet the wants and requirements of this coast We shall sell the BAIN WAGON at the lowest possible price for a first class wagon and WARRANT them such and in this connection beg to caution purchasers not to confound them with inferior makes that others are or may endeavor to sell on the strength of the established reputation of the Bain manufacture particularly after having made repeated and persistent efforts (without avail) to purchase wagons of Mr Bain for this market

What the 'Fat Contributor' Knows about Farming.—Now that winter is approaching it would perhaps be as well to discontinue haying and turn your attention to getting in your saw logs. [illegible] farmer can consider his fall work complete until he has his cellar well supplied with saw logs. Seated around the blazing hearth of a winter's night there is no fruit more delicious.

A correspondent asks us what we think of late ploughing. Ploughing should not be continued later than 10 or 11 o'clock at night. It gets the horses in the habit of staying out late, and unduly exposes the plow. We have known plows to acquire springhalt and inflammatory rheumatism from late plowing. Don't do it.

To another correspondent who wants to suggest a good drain on a farm we would say a heavy mortgage at ten per cent will drain it about as rapidly as anything we know of.

When you make cider select nothing but the soundest turnips, chopping them into [illegible] lengths before cracking them. In boiling your cider use plenty of ice, and when boiled hang it up in the sun to dry.

LAND DEPARTMENT

OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD COMPANY.

SALEM, OREGON October 2[illegible] 1870

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT IS MADE FOR information of all concerned:

First—Congress has granted to the Company all alternate sections of the public lands [illegible] designated by odd numbers within a distance of thirty miles on each side of the railroad, excepting lands to which a pre-emption or homestead claim had attached prior to the withdrawal by Government of the lands co-terminous with the first division of located line from East Portland to Jefferson, at 12 M February 1st 1870. The second division of located line from Jefferson to a point six miles south of Roseburg May 1870, and from the last named point to the California line 1870.

Second—Persons who have valid pre-emption or homestead claims to any tract on such [illegible] section can purchase the same from the Railroad Company at the Government price of $1 25 per acre in greenbacks and upon very favorable terms if they so desire by filing an abandonment of their claim in the U S Land Office, blanks for which will be furnished by the Land Agent of the Company. Such purchase from the Company has these advantages over a purchase from the Government: The party can leave the land if necessary, he can sell the land or mortgage it; he is saved the payment of lawyers or agents fees and expenses of witnesses to go to the Land Office to prove up his claim; he can get his title perfect in less time and he can buy on credit at a low rate of interest.

Third—No sales will be made by the Company until the land is listed over to it by the United States Land Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior.

Purchasers are thus assured that the title they obtain is perfect. I. R. MOORES
